From the Editor: What’s in a Name?
David Schildkret............................................................................................ 2

Performing Bach: One or Many?
Robin A. Leaver ............................................................................................ 6

A Boy was Born:
An Examination of the Stylistic Influences on the Young Benjamin Britten
Stephen Sieck...............................................................................................16

Voice Science in the Choral Rehearsal:
Examining Glottal Onset
Duane Cottrell..............................................................................................31

“We Have Something Really Going Between Us Now”:
Columbia Record’s Influence on the Repertoire of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, 1949–1992
Mark D. Porcaro...........................................................................................41